

Eagle Scout Guidance Information

This document is for helping the Eagle Scout candidate, the Parents, and the Coaches with information about achieving the Eagle Scout rank, and the process associated with it. It has useful information for everyone and can be given to all involved. It is divided up into several sections, the first one giving a detailed description of the whole process.

Detailed Description of the Process;

1. GET A NOTEBOOK - Get a notebook to keep track of your time spent on the project, and everyone else's time. Keep the time for each person separate. Don't wait to enter times later because you will forget. A marble type notebook is recommended so you don't lose the pages but use whatever you feel comfortable with. You will need this information later on in the project, so take care of it as you go.
2. THINK OF A PROJECT - Start thinking about an Eagle Scout project that you would like to do. It helps if it has some special meaning to you. Look at other Eagle Scout projects for ideas, and to get a rough determination of size. The Eagle Scout project is something that allows the boy to show leadership skills and benefit his community. It does not have to be for a non-profit organization, but it very often is.
3. DISCUSS IDEAS WITH LEADERS - Discuss your Eagle Scout project ideas with the troop leaders to help determine if the project is appropriate. When troop leaders are mentioned, more often than not it refers to your Scoutmaster, your Committee Chairperson, and your Project Coach/Mentor. It can refer to other leaders in the troop, but you need to keep these three people informed.
4. WRITE PROPOSAL IN WORKBOOK - If the troop leadership thinks the project is appropriate, they will give you the go ahead to look into your project idea in more detail. Look into the project some more and keep discussing it with your troop leaders to make sure it continues to be appropriate. When the project is a little more refined, you can start to write the project up in the first part of the Eagle Scout Leadership Project Workbook (section 1, the Proposal). You should only start writing up the project in the proposal part of the workbook if the troop leadership thinks the project idea is ready.
5. SOME WORKBOOK INFO - You get the Eagle Scout Leadership Project Workbook (workbook) from the Suffolk County Council Website, sccbsa.org, and keep drilling down under Boy Scouts, Advancement and Eagle Scout. Make sure you are using the latest copy of the workbook, by getting it from this website. There is a section later toward the end of this document that has instructions for getting the workbook, "Website Instructions for getting the Workbook". But remember that from time to time, websites change, and you will have to figure out where these documents are kept. In general, they are typically under Boy Scouts, then Advancement, then Eagle Scout Project Information.

You will see several documents there of importance to the prospective Eagle Scout (preparation guide, workbook, application, reference letters, etc.). The workbook is a PDF that you can type into. Typing is recommended, but not mandatory. If you don't type, printing neatly is mandatory. Read the information in the workbook, it is helpful. You should also read the preparation guide in the same location. It has some good information in it. The workbook is divided into 4 sections, which are listed below. For now, to start you will be working on The Proposal section. The workbook sections are;

- a. The Proposal (first section)
- b. The Project Final Plan (second section, more detail)
- c. The Fundraising Application (third section)
- d. The Project Report (fourth section, final report)

There is a section later on in this document called "Contact Information for the Workbook". This section in this document has the information you will need to fill in the workbook section called Contact Information.

6. REVIEW PROPOSAL WITH LEADERS - Start entering the information about the project into the proposal section of the workbook. The descriptions of the information required by the workbook are fairly self-explanatory. When you think the proposal is complete, you should schedule a meeting with the troop leadership to discuss it. The proposal should not be the detail design and plan for the project, but it should have as much detail and planning as is asked for in the workbook. It is a proposal, and a first cut at defining the details of the project. The more detailed design and planning come in the next section (section 2) of the workbook after your project is approved. When you meet with the troop leadership, you will discuss the project, and if it is decided more information is needed, then you will get the information, and meet again. You will continue to meet and discuss with the leadership until you are both satisfied with the information. This is also the time when a more definitive decision is made about the size and appropriateness of the project, the project's leadership potential, and the community service of the project. The troop leadership must evaluate the project, to make sure it's not too much or not too little, to satisfy the leadership and community service requirements. Keep in mind that every scout, and every project is different, and a comparison of different projects is useful, but is not the determining factor for the approval of the project. The troop leadership will make a decision about the appropriateness of the project based on that particular scout and all that is involved with the project, including its leadership and community service potentials. An Eagle Scout project very often involves a fundraising effort, but that is not a requirement for the project. A fundraising effort is common for Eagle Scout projects, and if included, is considered part of the big picture when considering the size of the project. If not included, then the project must stand on its own in that determination. You must not start any work on the project, or set any definite dates until the project is approved and signed off.

7. GET PROPOSAL SIGNED OFF - At the end of the Proposal section is a place for signature signoffs for the approval of the Proposal. There are 4 signatures required for approval, the unit leader, the unit committee chairperson, the beneficiary, and the council representative. The beneficiary and/or benefitting organization are the people you are doing the project for. The council representative is assigned by council (Mr. Bindert). You should try and get the beneficiary signature before meeting with the troop leadership for the final signoff, but this is not absolutely necessary. When the troop leadership and beneficiary are satisfied with the proposal write up, they will sign it, and you can move on to the next step.
8. CALL OR EMAIL MR. BINDERT - When you have the signatures of the unit leader, the committee chairperson, and the beneficiary, you can then call or email the Suffolk County Council Advancement committee representative, Mr. Brian Bindert. He will verify that you have the signatures that you need, he will discuss your project with you, and he will then assign a council representative to work with you. He will talk with you on the phone, and will not talk with the parents, and does not want to hear the parents talking in the background. The project is the boy's project, and the boy should do all the talking, and should know all the details. Mr. Bindert's email address is (brian@bindert.net). There is a section later in this document of the typical questions that Mr. Bindert is asking before he assigns a scout to a council representative for a full review of the project.
9. CALL THE COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE - You will then call the council representative to arrange a get together meeting to discuss your project with that person. When you attend this meeting, make sure there is an adult with you so that we all observe the youth protection rules. You attend in full uniform, or as much of the uniform as you have. The council representative will meet with you, discuss your project, and if all goes well, he will sign off on your project. While you are meeting with the council representative, it is a good idea to have your fundraising application (workbook section 3) ready to hand in and submit to council for approval. Look ahead for more information about the fundraising application (section 3).
10. SECTION 2, MORE DETAIL/PLANNING – After your project is approved by council, your next step is to work on the workbook section 2. This is the section where you will do more planning and define more detail about the project. A project coach can be chosen to help you at this time if you don't have one already. A project coach is typically a leader in the troop that is familiar with the Eagle Scout project process. Ask your scoutmaster if you need help with this. You do some more planning, enter some more detail in the workbook section 2, and there is a line at the end of section 2 for the coach's comments. While you are working on section 2, you can be planning and setting dates for the implementation of the fundraising and project. It's always good to set dates to work towards. But make sure you give yourself and your helpers enough time to meet those dates, and make sure you review those dates with your scoutmaster. This is important to make sure there are no scheduling conflicts with the troop, and to make sure you are allocating enough preparation time.

11. SECTION 3, FUNDRAISER APPLICATION - If you have not already done section 3 (the fundraising application), then you should start working on it in parallel to working on section 2. The form is not long, one page, and straight forward. Fill in the application and get your unit leader's signature. Running games of chance at the fundraiser is not permitted (no Chinese auction, no 50/50, no chance tickets, etc.). In the section where it asks if you will ask anyone for donations, you will put in several specific examples of who you are going to ask, and what you are going to ask them for (read the fine print, you must!). For example, you may be going to Home Depot to ask for building supplies, and you may be going to Party City to ask for decoration donations. You do not ask for money donations. You ask for contributions of materials and supplies, and you can accept money, but you should not ask for money. You should put down on the application an estimate of how much money you plan to make with the fundraiser. It's just an estimate. Some examples of fundraisers are a car wash, a dinner, a breakfast, a bowling gathering, a movie gathering, selling candy, selling popcorn, etc. Officially, the money you make from the fundraiser should be kept by the troop, or the benefitting organization. If the fundraiser is an outside activity, have a rain date. Keep in mind that a fundraising activity is not required for an Eagle Scout project. The money to pay for a project is always a consideration, but if a fundraiser is not required to fund a project, then the project itself needs to be evaluated by the troop leadership to make sure it is enough of a project on its own merit to satisfy the leadership and community service requirements.
12. SCHEDULE AND EXECUTE - As you do more planning, and work out more of the details, you will schedule the project to happen at certain times. Make sure you give people plenty of notice about when you are planning on doing things, so they can plan ahead and help you. And make sure you keep your leaders informed about these dates so they can help decide if they are appropriate. Set the dates for the project so you have dates to shoot for. Have a rain date if you're doing an outside activity. Always plan on the project taking more time than you think. You always need to leave extra time for the unexpected happenings. Unexpected happenings are OK and are part of the project. Those people reviewing the project will want to see how you handled the unexpected problems, and how you handle them is a sign of leadership in the project. However, too many unexpected happenings, is a sign of poor planning. Try to plan out the implementation of the project as much as you can to insure the success of the project.

13. WRITE UP PROJECT REPORT (workbook section 4) - When the project is done, you need to fill out section 4 of the workbook, which is the project report. Give as much information as you can about how the project went, and the difficulties that you ran into. The workbook is self-explanatory about the information it is looking for. At the end of section 4 is a sign off for the beneficiary, and for the unit leader. Pay close attention to the money you made with the fundraising effort, and the money you spent on the project. Everything should be accounted for. Pay close attention to the time you and all your helpers spent on the project. There are specific places in section 4 for all this information and all the numbers should match. Any money left over from the project will be given to the benefitting organization in the form of a check from the troop, so there is accountability for it. When you think you are done with writing up section 4, you should arrange a meeting with your troop leaders to discuss what you have done and look over the report and the Eagle Scout Application.
14. REVIEW WORKBOOK WITH LEADERS - When you meet with the troop leadership to look over your workbook, don't be surprised if they have recommendations for changes. They have significant experience with filling out the workbook, and you should listen to what they have to say, and make any appropriate changes. Also don't be surprised if this also takes more than one meeting. You should also have the Eagle Scout Application filled out for this meeting. Look ahead for the details about filling the application out.
15. REVIEW EAGLE SCOUT APPLICATION WITH LEADERS – When you meet with the troop leaders to go over your workbook, you should have your Eagle Scout Rank application filled out also. This is also on the Suffolk County Council Website, and it is a two-page PDF file that you can type into. You will need a copy of an advancement summary from your leaders to fill in the merit badges and ranks with the correct dates. Request that from them if they have not given it to you already. The information on the application is straight forward, however something that many boys miss is in the Certification by Applicant section on the second page. It says you must submit a statement of your ambitions, etc. It's an essay about yourself, your ambitions, and what you are involved with outside of scouting. A typical size would be about a page long. The application also requires you to specify who you are going to ask for letters of recommendation. See the application for the categories of people you are requesting letters from. There is a form to use for requesting the letters from the people. See below for details. The form can be found on the Suffolk County Council website.

16. SIGNOFF WORKBOOK + APPLICATION - When the troop leadership is satisfied with the workbook and application, they will sign them, and you are ready to move onto the Eagle Scout Board of Review.
17. MUST SUBMIT BEFORE 18TH BIRTHDAY – At this time, you will have 1 original version of the workbook, the application and the essay, and you should make 3 copies of those 3 documents. You will hand in the original of the 3 documents, and a copy of the 3 documents to Suffolk County Council before your 18th birthday. You will keep the other two copies to bring with you to your Eagle Scout Board of Review (BOR). Your Eagle Scout Board of Review can be scheduled up to several months after handing in the paperwork, but the paperwork must be submitted before your 18th birthday.
18. LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION – The Eagle Scout candidate must request letters of recommendation from several people per the Eagle Scout Application. There is a form to use to request the letters of recommendation, and that can be found on the Suffolk County Council website. The form gives the writer of the recommendations some information to write about, and the boy should use this form. The writer of the recommendation can use the form to return their letter of recommendation, or they can write the letter in any format they want. The boy will submit the request for the letter of recommendation to the person (suggest doing in person) along with a stamped envelope addressed to the committee chair person (Mr. Douglas Philp, 72 Champlain St., Port Jefferson Station, NY 11776). The envelope should have on it the following, (In Reference to ‘name of boy’), so the committee chairperson knows what the letter is about when they receive it. The envelopes only get opened the night of the Eagle Scout board of review. The only people to see the letters of recommendation are the board of review participants, and then the letters are handed over to council, never to be seen by the boy or their parents.
19. COUNCIL REP ARRANGES BOR – The council representative (REP) you are working with will receive one of the copies of the workbook and application from council and will then contact the committee chairperson to arrange the Eagle Scout Board of Review (BOR). A BOR will not be scheduled until several letters of recommendation have been received by the committee chairperson. The BOR is scheduled when the letters have been received, and when enough committee members can be assembled to attend the BOR, and in coordination with when the boy can attend.

20. ATTEND THE BOR – Do not be afraid of the Board of Review (BOR), be prepared! Come to the board of review in full uniform and bring extra copies of the workbook and pictures taken during the project for the people at the BOR to see. You should know the details about your project, but you don't need to have everything memorized. You can look at your workbook while you are talking about your project at the BOR. You will be asked thought provoking questions at the BOR. They want you to talk to them, so talk to them! They want to hear what you have to say. Be honest, and tell them what you know, and what you think. Did I mention you should talk to them?

Eagle Scout Application Information:

1. You get the Eagle Scout Application from the Suffolk County Council Website, sccbbsa.org. Go to the website and drill down under advancement and Eagle Scout to find the application document. It should be a PDF file that you can type into and save what you entered.
2. The Eagle Scout Application is a 3-page document, but the last page is just for NESAs (National Eagle Scout Association). So, the first two pages are the most important to fill out completely and read the fine print. Do not fill in anything below the “Unit Approval” on the lower half of the second page. That is mostly for the leaders and council to fill in.
3. Fill in your personal information, name, address, etc.
4. You will need various dates on the form for when you achieved ranks and merit badges. Ask your unit advancement person for a copy of the online advancement history for you and use that to fill in the dates. It is important you use that form because that is what council and national will be checking against to make sure your dates are correct. So, use what they use to start with. When it asks for your board of review date for something, that is the same as the date on the online advancement form, and that is always the date when you achieved that advancement. Not the date of the Court of Honor.
5. You will have to fill in the information for who you will be asking to receive letters of recommendation from. See above for the details about the letters of recommendation. If you don’t have an email address, that is OK. If you don’t have an employer, that is OK. A religious recommendation can come from a religious leader (priest, rabbi, etc.), or it can come from a person who is religious, and who would be able to speak about you and your religious commitment.
6. There is a section for entering the dates for when you earned your 21 merit badges. Use the online advancement form you received from your leadership to fill in these dates.
7. There is a section for entering the leadership positions you have held, and the dates for which you held them. If you don’t remember those dates, work with your adult leadership to fill in those dates.
8. Fill in the information about your Eagle Scout Project.
9. Have a Unit Leader Conference (Scoutmaster Conference) with your Unit Leadership (Scoutmaster, Assistant Scoutmaster, etc.), and fill in the date on which that was done.

Eagle Scout Guidance Information

10. Read the fine print for Commitment by Applicant section on the second page. You must submit a statement of your ambitions, life purpose, etc. It's an essay about yourself, your ambitions, and what you are involved in outside of scouting. A typical size would be about a page long.
11. DO NOT forget to sign and date the application yourself.
12. You also need to get the signature of the unit leader, and the committee chairperson before you hand it in.
13. If you have any questions, contact your unit leadership, and they will be happy to help you.

Notes & Tips for the Project:

- You will need to fill in the sections of the workbook. You can type into the PDF and save it, or you can hand write the information. If you hand write the information, you must do it neatly.
- The workbook changes over time, but the sections in the workbook are self-explanatory. They have gotten better about asking for the information they want. Just respond to the questions and give as much information as you can.
- Some tips about filling in the details.
 - Get Before photographs.
 - Describe the present condition of the area.
 - Describe the methods that you are going to use to get the job done.
 - Create a list of materials to be used, and prices.
 - Create a list of tools to be used.
 - Who will be your project helpers, and a chart of manpower that you think you will need? You need to be able to describe why you used those estimates.
 - You need a time schedule to carry out the project.
 - Create a schematic of the area where the project is going.
 - Create a schematic of the actual project.
- Keep your workbook up to date, with the time spent on the project so far. You will need this later. A suggestion is there should be 3 sections in the workbook.
 - Time you spent on the project
 - Time others have spent on the project
 - And a section for notes.
- Get the signatures and dates you need for the book. Get it approved and signed by the benefiting organization first. Then by the scoutmaster, and committee chairperson. Then by the council guide.
- Answers to some common questions;
 - You do not need to finish all your merit badges to start your project, but you do have to be at the Life rank
 - You do not need to have a fundraiser as part of your project, but if you do not, then the project needs to be that much more involved to show leadership and community service.

Eagle Scout Guidance Information

- The troop treasurer should hold the money for the project and check donations to the project should be written out to the troop.
- All money collected for the project will go to the benefiting organization, including any funds not spent on the project.
- The Eagle Scout candidate should wear a full uniform when asking for donations, at the Board of Review (BOR), and usually at the fundraiser. At the implementation of the project Class B uniform is fine.
- Projects are most often for a non-profit organization.
- Parents walk a fine line between helping a boy with a project and doing the project for him. This is the boy's project, and parents should let him do it. Reminding him about it is fine, and helping him get things done is fine, but doing things for him is not fine. When there is too much friction between the parents and the boy, the parent should talk with the leaders about it, and let them work with the boy.
- This is a leadership project for the boy. The project is about showing leadership, and community service. The boy is not to do the project by himself, or with just the parents. The boy needs to be leading others and taking control of the project. Let the boy do it, with all its ups and downs. That is how we learn, no matter how frustrating it is for others.
- The boy should plan ahead. Do not plan to do something the day before you want to do it. Give a week or two notice to the troop and others for planning an event. People need time to plan ahead for events.
- Funds spent on food and drink for the participants of a project, are part of the funds spent on the project, and should come out of the funds raised for the project. They should also go into the description of the funds spent on a project.
- Get the fundraising application started early. It can take as much as 2 weeks to get it approved, and longer if rejected.
- The process takes time, usually longer than you think. Do not underestimate the time it takes.
- You must hand in all the paperwork (completed workbook, the application, and the essay) before your 18th birthday. The board of review can come up to several months after the hand in.

Discussion With Scout & Parents about the Project:

- What does Eagle Scout mean to you?
- Do you really want to do it?
- There is going to be some work for both the boy, and the parents.
- The project will take some time, more than you anticipate.
- As you get older, there are more things going on, job, car, work, finishing up high school, girls, college, etc.
- What is a typical project, and what are some of the projects of the past?
- Do you have any ideas for projects that you have been thinking about?
- You have to plan things, and plan ahead.
- Keep coming to meetings, showing leadership, helping, and taking a more active teaching role. You know a lot more than you think.
- The project is about leadership, not about doing the project yourself.
- Parents walk a delicate balance of helping and reminding, but do not let it get to the point of arguments. Have the unit leadership nudging the boy.
- What are your phone numbers?
- Summary of Steps to give a general idea about the process:
 1. Get a notebook, start keeping a log
 2. Select a possible project
 3. Talk with leadership about it before you do too much
 4. Work out some of the details with the benefitting organization and talk with us again.
 5. Write up the project in the workbook
 6. Get approval signatures
 7. Meet with Council Eagle Scout Guide
 8. Then you can start with the fundraising, and the project
 9. When the project is done, finish writing up the workbook before you forget things. Don't wait.
 10. Get approval for the workbook from your adult leadership
 11. Fill in the Eagle Scout application, work on the letters of recommendation, and write the essay about yourself.
 12. Get approval for everything from your adult leadership
 13. Hand all the information into council before 18th birthday, and wait for letters of recommendation to come in, and for the board of review.

Eagle Scout Guidance Information

- This is a time-consuming process, so don't wait. Get going on things as soon as you can. You don't have to have all your merit badges completed before you start your project.

Sample Questions from Mr. Bindert as of 2019:

Name:

What Troop are you with?

How old are you right now?

What month is your birthday?

What's your email address?

What's your home phone number?

What's your cellphone number?

What leadership position (or positions) have you held since becoming a Life Scout?

How long have you held (or how long did you hold) that position since becoming a Life Scout?

How many Merit Badges have you completed?

Which (if any) Eagle required badges do you still need to complete?

Do you have 3 signatures (Scoutmaster, Committee Chair, and Beneficiary) on your Eagle Project Plan? (That's Proposal Page E in the Eagle Scout Service Project Workbook)

Have you begun working with an Eagle Coach? If so, who is that?

Describe your project in one or two sentences?

Who is the project beneficiary?

How much do you think the project will cost?

Are you planning on fundraising?

If so, how much are you trying to earn?

What are you thinking about doing as a fundraiser?

Website Instructions for getting the Workbook:

Remember that from time to time, websites change, and you will have to figure out where these documents are kept. In general, they are typically under Boy Scouts, then Advancement, then Eagle Scout Project Information.

1. On the web, go to scbsa.org
2. Click on “Programs”, then click on “Boy Scouts”
3. In upper right search box type in Eagle Scout workbook, and hit return
4. Click on the link for downloading the PDF and download it to a place on your machine where you can work on it.
5. Remember that you need Adobe Reader 9 or later to access the file properly.

(Adobe Acrobat Reader DC)

Occasionally users have had problems accessing the file because they are using an older version of the Adobe Reader application, and this may be because when you double click on the file, the old version is run for that file type on that computer (pdf). There is a setting on the computer, that it should run a particular application for a particular file type.

The work around for this is to open the Adobe Reader 9 application first (Adobe Acrobat Reader DC), and then from that application you open the file you want to edit. This way you are running the correct application first, and then opening the file, and you are not relying on the computer to decide what version of the application to run with that file type.

6. We recommend you do not save your file to a cloud resource. Save it to a hard drive, or USB stick memory location so you can get to it when you want to, and not just when you have internet access, and the cloud is available.

Instructions for Submitting Fundraising Application:

1. If a scout is going to fundraise or solicit donations for his project, the scout is required to submit a fundraising application to SCC, Suffolk County Council.
2. The scout does not have to submit a fundraising application if the project does not need funding, or the funding is coming from somewhere else.
3. Please refer to the Eagle Scout Fundraising Application Instruction sheet in the Eagle Scout Workbook.
4. The fundraising application needs to be sent or delivered to Suffolk County Council BSA by hand delivering, mailing, faxing, or emailing to;
 - a. Suffolk County Council BSA, 7 Scouting Blvd, Medford NY 11763
 - b. Faxing to 631-924-7145, with attention to Norma Brasile
 - c. Emailing to Norma Brasile at norma.brasile@scouting.org
5. The turnaround process time for the approval of the fundraising application can take as long as 2 weeks.
